DETAILED ACTION

1. This action in respond to communication received on July 10, 2005.
2. Claim 12 has been cancelled.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 1-6, 8, and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Rochberger et al., U.S. Patent No. 6,205,146 (referred to hereafter as Rochberger).

Rochberger teaches the invention explicitly as claimed including a system and method of generating routing tables depending on the source and the destination addresses (see abstract).

5. As to claim 1, a method of indexing content in an IP-based network comprising:
(a) intercepting traffic flowing in the network (see col. 5 lines 51-57, packets are intercepted on the network),

(b) extracting content Identity information and associated destination location information from the traffic flow (see col. 5 lines 51-57, a destination address is determined),

(c) generating a mapping from a content item identified by the extracted identity information to at least one destination location identified by the associated', destination location information (see col. 5 lines 58-col. 6 lines 6, the number of hops and the cost is determined for each destination, a table is generated with the hop addresses), and

(d) storing the mapping in a content index database which is operable to provide, an instance mapping containing list of destination. locations in response to an instance request containing a content identity (see col. 5 lines 58-col. 6 lines 6, the route tables are stored on the nodes).

6. As to claim 2, a method according to claim 1, wherein the step of intercepting traffic is carried out by Intercepting traffic flowing Into a cache, and wherein the method, further comprises advertising the content Identities for which mappings are, stored in the content index by sending advertising messages to a predetermined location (see col. 5 lines 58-col. 6 lines 6).

7. As to claim 3, a method according to claim 2, wherein the method further comprises recording the time of traffic flows into the cache which are related to a particular content and calculating the time period between a first flow of the content item Into the cache and a subsequent flow of the content item into the cache thereby to assess how long items are held in the cache before they are expired and deleting the mapping relating to that content item when that content item is judged to have expired in the cache (see col. 5 lines 58-col. 6 lines 6, the data is deleted when the timer expires).

8. As to claim 4, a method according to claim 1, wherein the step of intercepting traffic is carried out by intercepting traffic flowing out of an original content source (see col. 5 lines 58-col. 6 lines 6).

9. As to claim 5, a method according to claim 4, wherein the method further comprises receiving an advertising message which advertises a mapping; generated elsewhere on the network and which is related to content items stored in the original content source, and augmenting the content index using information contained in the advertising message (see col. 5 lines 15-57).

10. As to claims 8, and 13, a proxy for an IP-based network comprising:-

(a) a data input operable to receive data from the network (see col. 5 lines 15-57),

(b) a data output operable to send data to the network (see col. 5 lines 15-57),

(c) an identity extractor operable to analyze data received at the data input and to extract content identity information from the data (see col. 5 lines 15-57),

(d) a location extractor operable to analyze data received at the data input and to extract location information from the data (see col. 5 lines 58-col. 6 lines 15),

(e) a mapping generator operable to generate a mapping from a content , identified by identity information provided by the identity one destination location Identified by associated destination location Information provided by the location extractor (see col. 5 lines 58-col. 6 lines 15), and

(f) a content index database operable to store a mapping provided by the mapping generator and which is operable to provide an instance mapping, containing a list of destination locations in response to an instance request containing a content identity (see col. 5 lines 58-col. 6 lines 15).

Response to Arguments

11. Applicant's arguments filed July 10, 2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. In response to applicant's argument that the references fail to show certain features of applicant's invention, it is noted that the features upon which applicant relies (i.e., intercepting data traffic, such as a website page and extracting content identity information, for example a URL) are not recited in the rejected claim(s). Although the claims are interpreted in light of the specification, limitations from the specification are not read into the claims. See In re Van Geuns, 988 F.2d 1181, 26 USPQ2d 1057 (Fed. Cir. 1993). The examiner interpreted data traffic as data packets.

Conclusion

12. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
